Copenhagen, February 7.—M. Litvinoff, the Soviet representative, has heard from Trotsky that various members of the French, British and Italian Missions have been taken prisoners by the Bolsheviks in Siberia.

Rozanoff In Tokio Under Assumed Name

Tokio, February 12.—General Rozanoff arrived in Tokio last night travelling under an assumed name. The train was met by an automobile in which the General immediately drove off accompanied by four officers. His whereabouts are unknown. The Russian Embassy says it has no knowledge of his whereabouts while the police are uncommunicative on the subject.

Irkutsk Captors Plan Transbaikalia Invasion

Harbin, February 13.—General Voitzechovsky's troops who captured Irkutsk number nearly 35,000 men. They consist of workmen from the Ijevski and Votkinski mills, cadets Cossacks and the remainder of General Kappel's forces. They are well armed with artillery and machine guns. It is understood that a portion of this force will proceed to Transbaikalia, the remainder staying at Irkutsk.

The Vestnik Manchuria learns that a considerable force of Japanese troops is being despatched from Japan to Transbaikalia to guard the railway beginning from Missovaja.

Note—The situation at Irkutsk is obscure. The above conflicts with the report received yesterday from Reuter's correspondent at Vladivostok stating that the Soviet army had defeated General Kappel's army at Irkutsk.

Big Fire Sweeps Chungking And 10,000 Homeless

Ten thousand persons in Chungking, Szechuen, have been made homeless by fire that destroyed a great portion of the big commercial center Thursday, according to a telegram received here last night by Mr. W. A. B. Nichols of the American Red Cross.

While the telegram lacked details, it made an appeal to the local society for relief. A meeting of the American Red Cross Committee will be called today when plans will be formulated to conduct certain relief work in the Upper Yangtsze port.

FIGHT ANARCHY WITH ABUNDANCE COMMONS TOLD

Lloyd George Sees Only One Way To End Conditions Menacing Europe

MUST RESTORE RUSSIA

Says However That Bolshevism Cannot Be Crushed By Force Of Arms

(Reuter's Service)

London, February 10.—In the House of Commons this afternoon, following Sir Donald Maclean, Mr. Lloyd George indicated that he would deal with several important subjects at a later stage. Referring to the housing problem he pointed out that the chief difficulty was due to the refusal of the trades unions to suspend their regulations in spite of the 350,000 demobilised men who were anxious and sufficiently skilled to supply labor. That was a question for the Labor Party.

As regards Ireland the prime minister challenged an earlier speaker, Mr. Adamson, to say if he was prepared to grant a republic if the Irish demanded it, otherwise his proposal of self-determination was dishonest.

"Ought Ulster to be compelled to come under a government for the whole of Ireland?" Mr. Lloyd George asked. Referring to the "cowardly and despicable murders and assassinations," he asked: "Were we to withdraw troops and all protection and leave the assassins in charge?"

HIGH LIVING COST

Turning to the question of the present high cost of living, the Prime Minister said that the real explanation of dear living was that it was not due to profiteering but to the de-valuation of money. This existed all over the world. We were now paying in America six shillings in the pound extra for all purchases. The only remedy was increased production. With reference to economy he was glad to say that the forthcoming budget would more than balance.

Dealing with Russia Mr. Lloyd George said that the only British forces remaining in Russia were at Batum from which they were rapidly being withdrawn, in spite of the representations of Georgia and Azerbaijan, to Constantinople, where they were needed. The Prime Minister agreed that Europe could not be restored without putting the Russian resources into circulation. Every democracy in the world, he said, would like to see that done under any but a Bolshevik regime, whose horrors shocked mankind.

MUST RESTORE RUSSIA

Russia must be restored under an anti-Bolshevik regime, but it was perfectly clear that Bolshevism could not be crushed by force of arms. The warring Russian factors declined to recognise that, when they were so advised last year. The Volunteer army during its occupation of large tracts of South Russia had unquestionably managed to alienate the population. The Bolsheviks in the new advance had profited by past experience and avoided alienating the population to the same extent. Mr. Lloyd George dwelt on the difficulties of any attempt to create

PEACE ENVOYS SEE NO HOPE FOR RENEWAL OF SESSIONS

Both Delegates Assert New Loan Will Not Hasten Union

MOTIVE DOUBTED

Wang Yi-tang Charges Tang Shao-yi With Insincerity

ARMS PACT DEAD

Northern Representative Says Military Treaty Ended With War

Insisting that the military pact concluded between China and Japan had automatically ceased with the end of the war, General Wang Yi-tang, chief peace delegate of the Peking Government, yesterday charged Mr. Tang Shao-yi with being insincere in his telegram to Canton which asked the Southern Government to take steps toward immediate resumption of the internal peace conference and flayed the North for continuing the agreement with Japan.

Both Mr. Tang, who headed the Southern Delegation, and General Wang see little hope of a resumption of the parley. They both stated that the £5,000,000 loan to be made by France, Great Britain, the United States and Japan, will not hasten the reopening of the conference. That internal warfare must cease is one of the stipulations on which the loan is to be made.

Mr. Tang's telegram, which was published in full yesterday in THE CHINA PRESS, has been forwarded to the Central Government by the Canton Government, according to telegrams received by General Wang and Mr. Tang.

"Mr. Tang Shao-yi has again proved his lack of sincerity for internal peace by confusing issues," General Wang said. "The military pact is not worthy of discussion since it must die with the end of the European war. The agreement was made with Japan as a defensive weapon against a common enemy. The enemy has been beaten and thus the pact automatically ceases to exist.

Insists North Is Sincere In Desire For Peace

"I have been in Shanghai four months attempting to convince the South that the Central Government has an earnest desire to resume the peace parley. Mr. Tang Shao-yi first demanded the secret treaties. These were sent to me from Peking and I will make them public the day that the conference resumes.

"Mr. Tang's telegram to Canton is but another instance of his insincerity; another excuse to delay negotiations. If he wants peace, he need only to confer with me, the representative of the Northern Government in Shanghai for the purpose. There is no necessity for Mr. Tang to wire Canton urging that the peace conference be resumed immediately.

"I do not understand his motive in sending such a telegram to Canton. He must understand that the military pact is in force no longer. I can do nothing but await my instructions from Peking for Canton has forwarded Mr. Tang's telegram to the Northern Government.

North Prepared To Resume At Any Time

"I am prepared to resume negotiations; I have been waiting for the Southern Delegation to respond. For four months I have been here and will remain in Shanghai indefinitely for the North is sincere in its desire to end the national war and unite the people of China.

"If the South is as sincere as its representatives profess, they need only to open negotiations with me."

General Wang told reporters that he was entirely in sympathy with Mr. Tang's "hands off" attitude as the policy to be pursued by China

Jonah Day Rain Is Discouraging To Lawbreakers

The first "Friday, the Thirteenth," in 1920 passed off peacefully in Shanghai yesterday. The rain was the saving grace of the occasion according to veteran police desk sergeants who are wise in their generation.

"Even the professional thugs won't turn out on a day like this," said one of the wiseacres—and he proved to be right. There was a dearth of crime and the streets were not so crowded that even the usual quota of daily accidents was reached.

ELCANO FAILS TO FIND SURVIVORS FROM BRISBANE

One Woman And Four Officers, Foreigners, With Chinese Crew Of 40 Lost

VESSEL FAR OFF COURSE

Sailed Christmas Week From Shanghai With Oil Cargo For Vladivostok

After a futile search for survivors from the steamer Brisbane, lost Christmas week on a voyage from Shanghai to Vladivostok, the American gunboat Elcano has returned to Shanghai from a perilous cruise among the islands of the Chusan Archipelgo with word that fairly establishes that the Brisbane burned and sank and that all on board, a crew of forty Chinese, five foreign officers and one woman perished.

The foreigners who sailed from Shanghai on the Brisbane were: Captain John McClellon and his wife, Chief Officer H. B. Andens, Chief Engineer R. Williams and Second Engineer J. E. Bowron.

The Brisbane, a vessel of 716 tons, sailed from Shanghai December 28 with a cargo of kerosene and gasoline. She was under charter from the owners, Carmichael and Clark of Hongkong, to the Standard Oil and ordinarily the voyage to the Siberian port would not have taken more than six days.

GASOLINE FOUND

Ten days after the Brisbane sailed and after she had been reported overdue at Vladivostok word came from Ningpo and Haimen that fishermen of these ports had picked up hundreds of cases of gasoline and kerosene floating in the sea off the Chekiang coast and later had found the charred superstructure of a vessel. It was remembered that when the Brisbane set out a heavy northwest gale had been raging off the mouth of the Yangtsze for five days and the belief was advanced that the steamer had become disabled and in this condition had been blown hundreds of miles off of her course south to the Chekiang coast.

After the word of finding gasoline in the sea had reached Shanghai the Elcano was ordered from Nanking and set out on the search for survivors. It was established as a result of the cruise that the Brisbane probably was lost on the night of December 30 south of Barren island. How dangerous a task that the gunboat undertook in its cruise of the islands of the Chusan group is indicated by reports of conditions encountered near Barren Island which the Elcano circled, but despite efforts of the navigating officer, Lieut. Joseph F. Courtney, it was found impossible to effect a landing owing to the heavy ground swell which caused the vessel to roll to an angle of 45 degrees. The report, in part, is as follows:

REPORT TELLS STORY

"At Ningpo the Elcano found some 800 tins of gasoline which had been brought in from Shenkiamen by Chinese fishermen. The tins of gasoline were identified as Standard Oil products and compared with the cargo carried by the Brisbane. Some of the cases were charred, others broken, many empty.

"Proceeding to Shenkiamen at the South East point of Chusan Islands, in a snow storm, the

WILSON GIVES APPROVAL TO HITCHCOCK'S TREATY PLAN

Likes Reservation Against American Mandates Not OK'd By Congress

OBJECTS TO FORM

Believes That It Might Chill Relation Of U.S. With Other Powers

LEADERS CONFER

President Says He Sees No Reason To Doubt Allies Good Faith

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, February 7.—President Wilson has written to Senator Hitchcock approving his reservation, which declares that the United States shall not employ an economic boycott or armed forces to preserve the territorial integrity of any country except with the sanction of Congress.

The President says that the while adhering to the substance of Senator Hitchcock's reservation, he considers its form very unfortunate and likely "to chill" the relationship of the United States with the Associated Powers.

Sees No Reason To Doubt Allies' Faith

The President says that he has never seen the slightest reason to doubt the Allies good faith or to fear that any nation might seek to enlarge American obligations under the Covenant of the League of Nations. He declares that he sees no objection to the frank statement that the United States can accept a mandate only upon the direct authority of Congress.

After hearing President Wilson's letter the Democratic Senators in conference decided to help to bring up the treaty in the Senate on February 9 and to work for a reservation compromise.

France Will Accept American Reservations

London, February 6.—The Times Paris correspondent understands that the French Government have decided to accept the American Senate reservations to the Peace Treaty.

Exchange Shops Defeat Increase In French Rates

Tobacconists Must Pay Taxes Is Rule Of Councillors In Concession

Dissension such as arose recently between the Chinese residents of the International Settlement in Shanghai and the Municipal Council was averted in the French Concession yesterday when it was announced that a proposed increase in tax rates for exchange shops had been abrogated. A tax on tobacconists, heretofore not asked to bear a proportionate expense of the community, is to be enforced.

Circulars distributed by the Commercial Federation of the French Concession, the shopkeepers' central organisation, told of the action of the French Municipal Council and urged that rates be paid by next Monday.

The history of the controversy was related in the circular. It was stated that although the council had decided to charge a higher rate than heretofore for exchange shops it had reconsidered and would assess them at only one tael per quarter, the former tax.

The tobacconists, however, must pay taxes, it was announced, and the shopkeepers urged that they abide by the decision of the municipal body.

German Government Issues A Proclamation Calling On Lost Provinces To Remain True

Berlin, Jan. 11.—The Government has issued the following proclamation to the German inhabitants of the territories which are being separated from Germany:

The unhappy issue of the war has left us defenseless to the arbitrary will of an opponent who is imposing upon us, in the name of peace, the heaviest of sacrifices, the first of which is the renunciation of German territories in the east, west and north, without regard to the principles of self-determination, by which hundreds of thousands of our German countrymen are being placed under foreign domination.

German Brothers and Sisters: Not only in the hour of farewell, but forever mourning for our loss will fill our hearts, we vow to you, on behalf of the entire German people, that we will never forget you. You, on your part, will not forget your common German Fatherland—of that we are sure.

Whatever is possible for us to do to preserve to you the mother language, the German character and the inward spiritual union of the homeland will be done. We will unceasingly urge that promises given in the treaty shall be kept. Our sympathy, our care, our ardent love will unfallingly be yours.

Across all frontier barriers German nationality remains one entity. Be strong with us in the belief that the German people will not perish, but, on hard-won liberal foundations, will rise to the highest political, economic and social culture.

Countrymen: A hard injustice was done you and us by forcible separation. The right of self-determination has been refused the German population. But we do not abandon hope. You, too, one day will be granted this national fundamental right. We will therefore, despite all pain, call to one another, full of hope and confidence in this hour of parting. We will truly ever stand together with our entire strength for the right of our nationality.

College Founded By U.S. Capital Is Threatened By Politics In Peking

BY NATHANIEL PEFFER
(Our Peking Correspondent)

Peking, February 10.—There appears to be fresh trouble at Tsing Hua College. So serious a situation is revealed by what has already come out that it is not too strong to say that the continued existence of the institution founded by American funds is threatened. Certainly its efficient conduct is impossible without a thoroughgoing reorganisation.

The whole story is too complicated to attempt to give even in broad outline. It is enough to say that its principal element is politics. Next in importance is the apparently inseparable accompaniment of all Chinese enterprise, the genius for intrigue. The two have worked together, with the general unrest among all students, to bring about a condition in which the college is working at the lowest ebb of efficiency and learning is a lesser consideration.

A few weeks ago the students struck against the then President, Dr. Y. C. Chang. The strike was settled but Dr. Chang resigned, for one reason because his health was really bad. A successor has been appointed in the person of Mr. C. Y. Loh, formerly First Secretary of the Chinese Legation in London. The students have now started a campaign against him and are even threatening to strike if he assumes office. Their objection is based on the fact that he is not an educator by training, has not been in China for six years and was educated in England and not in the United States, whereas the primary purpose of the college is to train students for American colleges. Simultaneously a public statement has been made by the majority of the faculty members making definite recommendations. The statement is as follows:

SITUATION CRITICAL

The undersigned members of the Faculty and administration of Tsing Hua College feel that the time has come when the critical situation in the College demands a public statement. During the course of the investigation of the affairs of the College which was recently conducted by representatives of the Chinese Foreign Office and of the American Legation we were called upon to testify regarding conditions at Tsing Hua and make recommendations of the principles and policies which in our opinion should govern the future conduct of the institution. The central principle upon which all else depended, it was evident, was the freedom of the School from the control of men who have little or no knowledge, experience, or interest in educational affairs. While the ideas back of our recommendations have long been under discussion, the investigation has served to crystallise them, so that we are now in agreement in urging the following policies.

1. A Board of Control over the College which shall be free from political influence and which shall include some members who are educators of ripe experience and of undoubted disinterestedness.

WANT TRAINED MAN

2. A President who is a trained educator, who also is free from political influence, and who is intellectually, morally, and physically efficient.

Now, a situation in which students choose to exercise an extra-legal veto on their President, and the faculty has to make public statements on administration, particularly a statement hinting as much as this one, is exceedingly unhealthy. I have seen a lengthy report drawn up by a faculty commission which made an investigation several months ago. It revealed a nasty condition. And enough has been made public in the last few days to confirm the existence of such a condition.

Appointments to administrative and teaching positions have been made on political considerations

British Would Make Teuton Sea Lords Pay For Sub Warfare

8 INDICTMENTS

Ill Treatment Of Prisoners And Armenian Massacres Among The Counts

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, February 8.—The official list of war criminals which has been sent to Berlin consists of 194 pages. Great Britain demands a hundred individuals some unnamed, France 234, Belgium 334 of which number there are 265 unnamed and Italy 29. The British list is divided into eight categories; first, submarine warfare which includes the names of Admirals von Tirpitz, von Capelle, von Scheer, Hipper and Mueller and twenty naval officers charged with attacking merchantmen without warning; second, bombardment of open towns; third, the laying of submarine mines; forth, the attack on the Scandinavian convoy; fifth aerial attacks, including the names of all persons responsible; sixth, the Fryatt affair giving two names including that of Admiral Schroeder; seventh, acts against prisoners of war, which includes Generals von Arnim, von Trotha and von Below and Enver Pasha.

Eight, the Armenian massacres. This includes Enver Pasha, Talaat Pasha and Djemal Pasha.

German War Ministers Are Wanted By France

The French list is divided into two categories; first, violation of the laws of war in territories occupied by Germany. This includes the German Crown Prince, Prince Eitel Friedrich, Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, the Duke of Wuertemburg, the Grandduke of Hesse, the Duke of Mecklenburg, Count Bismarck, Hindenburg, Ludendorff, Generals von Moltke, von Buelow, von Kluck and also the officials of the German Ministry of War responsible for the destruction of factories and mines in France.

Second, violation of the laws of war in German prison camps. This includes Field Marshal von Falkenhayn.

The naval officers arraigned under the first category in the British list include submarine commanders who sank five hospital ships and those who sank inter alia the Persia, Apapa, Inkosi, Clan Murrat, Toko Maru, and Clan Macleod. One submarine commander is claimed in respect of nine sinkings in the course of 10 and a half months.

London Air Raiders Included In List

Arraignments in the second category are in respect of the attacks on West Hartlepool, Scarborough and Whitby. The fifth category includes the perpetrators of the air raids on London, Hull and Edinburgh whose names are indicated.

Nineteen officers are arraigned for ill-treatment of war prisoners especially numerous camp commandants and others who on the Western and Russian fronts kept prisoners within range of the firing line. Enver Pasha is arraigned for being responsible for ordering the march of prisoners from Kutel Amara and Admiral Schroeder for offenses against British and Indian prisoners in German West Africa.

Berlin Leaders Discuss Note Sent By Allies

Berlin, February 8.—The Government had long discussions with the party leaders on February 6. It was afterwards stated that the question of the extradition of war criminals would only be solved with the co-operation of parliament.

The French Charge d'Affaires yesterday handed the Chancellor,

GERMAN GENERAL AND ADMIRAL ON WAR FELONS' LIST

Herr Bauer, the Allied note with regard to war criminals.

The Vossische Zeitung understands that the note leaves the door open to further negotiations.

Allies In Accord On Text Of Note To Germany

Paris, February 7.—The Council of Ambassadors has unanimously decided that the list of German war criminals shall be again handed to the German government by the French Charge d'Affaires in the name of the Allies and it has also approved the text of the accompanying note.

Subsequently Lord Birkenhead, British Lord Chancellor, stated that the Allies were in complete accord on the point that the list should be again presented in Berlin, immediately.

French Circles Uneasy Over Proposed Concession

Paris, Feb. 7.—It is understood that Lord Birkenhead, the British Lord Chancellor, has advised the Council of Ambassadors that Mr. Lloyd George is now prepared to modify the black list of war criminals. The Council of Ambassadors is meeting today to hear the British Attorney General on the subject.

Meanwhile French circles are uneasy over what is regarded as a volteface on the part of Great Britain especially in view of the untoward circumstances which it is considered are bound to attend a concession of any vital point on a question which is regarded as a test of strength.

British List Unmodified Declares London Report

London, Feb. 8.—It transpires that the situation which has arisen with regard to the Allied list of war criminals is largely due to a misunderstanding. It is understood that the French and Belgian portions of the list were not seen by Great Britain and that thus there is no question of a British volteface but of Great Britain being committed to lists without seeing them. Happily the visit of the Lord Chancellor and Attorney General to Paris has resulted in completely clearing up the affair. The British list remains unmodified.

Manila Postage Rates To Shanghai Reduced

Notice Of Change Received Officially At American Post Office

Official notification was received yesterday at the American Post Office from Manila that American domestic rates of postage from the Philippines to Shanghai had been put into effect. In the past, under the foreign postage scale, it has cost five cents to mail a letter from Manila to Shanghai. The charge hereafter will be two cents. The letter announcing the change is as follows:

"United States Postal Agent,
"Shanghai, China.

"Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your communication of December 29, 1919, relative to complaints received at your office on account of the quantity of postage due mail despatched from Manila to Shanghai.

"In order to remove the cause for such complaints and to encourage closer business relations between the patrons of your office and the Philippine Islands, it has been decided to restore the domestic rates of postage to Shanghai

"Respectfully,
"Jose Topacio,
"Acting Director of Posts."

The official circular accompanying the communication directs: "Effective at once, all classes of mail matter posted in the Philippine Islands addressed to Shanghai, China, for delivery through the United States Postal Agency at Shanghai, will be accepted at the rate of postage and under the conditions which apply to mail posted in the Philippine Islands addressed for delivery in the United States.

"Jose Topacio."

J. O. P. BLAND IN JAPAN

Paris, February 12.—The agenda of the second session of the League of Nations Council which opened in London yesterday includes the question of the Saare Basin. It is proposed to create a ministry which will administrate the Saare territory and will be endowed with the political prerogatives of an independent government.

Adriatic Compromise Still Treaty Issue

Paris, February 6.—The Temps says that in order to dissipate the Jugo-Slav objection that the Treaty of London could not be applied to Jugo-Slavia, because Jugo-Slavia was not a party to the Treaty, which was never communicated to her, the British, French and Italian Governments have decided to communicate the Treaty to the Belgrade government. The three governments still adhere to the Adriatic solution already forwarded to Jugo-Slavia.

French Ambassador To Spain Selected

(French Wireless Service)

Paris, February 12.—M. de Saint-Aulaire has been promoted to the rank of Ambassador on his appointment to succeed M. Alapetite at Madrid. His appointment has been accepted by the Spanish government.

M. de Saint-Aulaire has held posts in Latin-America, at Vienna and in Morocco and since 1916 he has been the French representative at Bukharest.

Smiles from the Mixed Court

A sort of inner customs service, without official sanction, sent two Chinese to prison yesterday for a two years' term with the promise that they should be expelled from the Settlement as soon as their sentence has expired.

They're charter members of the Ancient and Most Dishonorable Order of Thirty-Six, according to the police.

The method they employed to earn a dishonest living, police inspectors told British Assessor Grant Jones and Magistrate Li in the Mixed Court yesterday, is very simple.

They simply get their gang together and whenever a boatman tries to land a cargo in Soochow Creek they demand a fee of $5. If the money is not forthcoming they take possession of the boat and send it on its way elsewhere.

In the opinion of the court the Society's activities do not make for improved commercial conditions here.

Pah Pan-ts, whose name reminded the court of a cleaning and dyeing establishment, is a cleanly man and was sadly shocked when he was sentenced to two months in jail for possessing four bars of soap. Enlightenment was vouchsafed the spectators in the Mixed Court yesterday when it was explained that the man, whose cognomen immediately conjured up visions of trousers and tailor bills, was said to have been an employe of the factory from which the soap disappeared.

"I wanted a bath," blandly apologised Pah.

Employes, Officials, To Settle Future Rail Wage Disputes

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, February 5.—The joint conference of members of the Senate and House of Representatives has reached an agreement on the Railroad Bill providing inter alia for the elimination of the Senate's anti-strike clause and the substitution of provisions whereby wage disputes shall be settled by a Wage Board composed of an equal number of employes and railway officials. In the event of disagreement an appeal will be taken to another board on which the public will be represented.

Obituary

MRS. ROBERT H. PARKER

Her many friends throughout the Far East will learn with sorrow of the death last night at 7:45 o'clock of Mrs. Mollie R. Parker, wife of Mr. Robert H. Parker, of Shanghai. Mrs. Parker who had been in failing health since her return from a visit to the United States last September, entered Dr. Fearn's Hospital on February 3 to undergo an operation. Following that, pneumonia developed and despite a brave struggle the end came last night.

Deceased who was born in California was 40 years old and had been a resident of Shanghai for 17 years. Her private charities were numerous and she was well known as a generous contributor to local funds for the relief of the distressed. Mrs. Parker, besides the bereaved husband, leaves a daughter, Betty, aged six years; a sister, Mrs. Parker Jones of Shanghai, and her mother, who resides in California.

Funeral services will be held at Bubbling Well Chapel at 5 o'clock this afternoon. All friends are invited to attend.

Japanese Military And Police Used To End Yawata Strike

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, February 12.—Commenting on the collapse of the Yawata ironworks strike the Osaka Mainichi doubts if it is due to a conciliatory attitude on the part of the officials, who claim that the strike was the outcome of instigation by a small section of the workers: hence the arrest of the ringleaders and the wholesale employment of police and military to suppress the strike. The Mainichi denounces "such high-handed methods."

The journal adds: "The cause of the sudden collapse of the strike undoubtedly lies in the fact that the strikers lost public sympathy through having resorted to infamous methods such as sabotage, acts of violence and attempts to damage the furnaces which would have caused an extensive loss to the whole nation."

Two of the strike leaders have left Yawata for Tokio to lay the facts before members of the Diet.

England's Report On Coal Industry Handed To Miners

(Reuter's Service)

London, February 11.—In accordance with the promise which Mr. Lloyd George gave to the Miners Federation on February 5, the report of the accountant appointed by government to investigate the finances of the coal industry has issued his report. He finds that the estimates on which the increase of six shillings per ton and the subsequent reduction of ten shillings per ton were based were on the whole reasonable, but that the revenue was underestimated to the extent of about £30,000,000 due to undervaluation of exports and bunkers.

The report considers that an increase of three shillings per ton instead of six shillings would have sufficed and estimates that there will be a surplus on March 31 next of £6,000,000, whereas the miners estimated that the net profits would be £54,000,000.

Workers To Insist On Mines' Nationalisation

London, February 6.—The Executive of the Miners' Federation has decided in view of the Prime Minister's refusal to introduce legislation to effectuate nationalisation of the mines, to ask that a special trade union congress should be convened to consider steps to enforce the demand for nationalisation.

British To Unify Crop Statistics

(Reuter's Service)

London, February 10.—The Imperial Statistical Conference has completed its work on the collection and co-ordination of data relating to agriculture, forests, forecast of crops, fisheries, land tenure, irrigation and also a five yearly agricultural census.

A scheme has been completed for the formation of an Imperial Bureau of Statistics, to be thoroughly representative of all parts of the Empire. A committee on the census of the population of the Empire is sitting under the chairmanship of Mr. G. H. Knibbs of Australia.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Japan's Exports To U.S. Increase But American Markets Little Affected

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, January 20 (by mail.)—Despite the steady growth of imports from Japan since the signing of the armistice, officials of the department of commerce today declared that American markets have been but little affected by the influx of Oriental goods. Imports from Japan have increased mainly in value rather than in quantity.

During the 11 months ending with November, 1919, the latest available figures, America imported goods valued at $367,130,187 from Japan, compared with $264,269,502 in 1918 and $238,550,617 in 1917.

One reason for the increase in imports is the shipping facilities now available, though Japan's expansion in foreign trade is regarded as general. Japanese goods which are sent to this country, however, are of the cheaper grades, it is said, and do not compete with the high class American manufactures. Low grade paper and cotton goods, tea, vegetable oils, silk and bamboo manufactures are said to form the bulk of the Japanese imports. The only classes of manufactures in which Japan and the United States are on a competitive footing are toys and a few novelties in which the two countries now lead the world.

CONTROLS CHEAP LINES

The constant increase in Japan's export trade not only with the United States but with the world indicates a heavy demand will be made in the Far East for American machinery and mechanical devices. Japan, it is said, can manufacture cheaply low grade goods but must import machinery with which to do it. Trade experts seem to concede that Japan will control the trade of the Far East in the cheaper lines but they believe the demand for American manufacturing machinery and office appliances will keep step with the growth of Japanese trade.

No invasion of the American markets by Japanese manufacturers is expected by trade experts of the Department of Commerce. At present Japan has the advantage over European exporters, because of the unsettled conditions brought on by the war. But when the industries of Europe have readjusted themselves a return of the normal flow of imports into the United States is looked for. For the next few years Japan's progress as a manufacturing nation will be almost wholly along the lines of her peculiar domestic products and low grade manufactures, it is asserted.

CHINESE HONOR FRENCH CONSUL

M. de la Prade Is Given Tablet By League Of Street Unions

The presentation of a souvenir tablet to M. D. de la Prade by the the League of Street Unions on the eve of the departure of the French Consul took place yesterday at the French Consulate-General. The inscription on the tablet reads the "Champion of Justice." The presentation was made by Mr. Yu Kuo-tseng, vice-president of the league and seven others.

In presenting the tablet, the chairman of the delegation said in part:

"M. de la Prade, you have been in China over ten years. During your term of office in the French Concession, you have dealt justly with the Chinese residents and have never oppressed us or caused us any suffering. As a representative of a democratic country, you have acquitted yourself loyally.

"Your knowledge of the Chinese has enabled us to deal with you directly without any misunderstandings. So the friendly relationship between you and us has been daily increasing. Your assistance to the various organisations in the concession and efforts in enabling the Chinese residents to enjoy their right of representation in municipal matters have impressed us deeply.

"As you are on the eve of leaving us on a deserved holiday, we beg to present to you this tablet as a token of our appreciation for your service in cultivating a democratic spirit in our people. We also wish to give you this picture of our organisation, representing over 34,000 shops and firms in Shanghai.

"Our hope is that you will soon return to this country and benefit us with your assistance. During your sojourn in your own country, we wish to ask you to present the case of our people to yours so that your government may give us its moral support in our fight for democracy.

"M. de la Prade, we all wish you a prosperous voyage!"

The French Consul responded appropriately in Chinese and expressed satisfaction at the friendly commercial relations now existing between the two republics.

Politics Imperil College Founded By U.S. Capital

and a number of unfit men have been appointed. The faculty is divided into factions, each working against the other and all against certain administrative factions. There is a Cantonese party, there is a Shanghai party composed chiefly of St. John's men, there is a party that owes its influence to its political affiliations with the Waichiaopu, there is the so-called American party, composed of the foreign teachers.

CHARGE WIRE-PULLING

The parties are not clear cut and definitely separated, of course, nor are they organised. But there is wire-pulling, squabbling—everything except conducting an educational institution for the realisation of its own purpose, the spread of learning. Discipline among the students is bad, there is no unity of effort among faculty members, there is a general tone of demoralisation.

It is impossible and unnecessary to assess blame. Probably blame can be about equally divided. The personal equation has entered to a great extent. "Nerves" have played a big part. But the existing conditions cannot continue. The most logical solution is the exercise of a firmer hand on the part of the American Legation. The institution was founded on the Boxer Indemnity funds remitted by the United States. The American representatives in China always have had a distant supervision over the college. It is necessary now to extend that supervision and to make it rigorous. The college must be lifted completely out of politics. Provincial loyalties above loyalty to the interests of the college must be severely punished. Administrative reorganisation must be effected at once.

AN AMERICAN ENTERPRISE

Since this is so largely an American enterprise, a greater degree of American interest, not only among officials but among American residents in China is highly advisable. In the opinion of the writer it would be advisable and profitable for the American Legation to call on the cooperation, say of the American Association.

A Board of Control might well be appointed on which there shall be representatives of the Legation, the Chinese Government, the American Association and Chinese educators—that is, Chinese who have no official connections or affiliations but whose work has been exclusively in education. Such a Board of Control wielding close control at least during the period of reorganisation can put the college back on its feet and make it a creditable institution. As things are, it is not such an institution and the success of the American experiment, to bring America and China closer by the training of Chinese students in America, is being correspondingly imperilled. Under present conditions Chinese students are getting a bad initiation into American education and American life before even they see America.

Practical difficulties to a greater control by Americans exist in the fact that there is no clear provision whereby the United States retains any right of supervision. But a moral right has been admitted always and it should be stretched to the uttermost.

Peking Schools Are Under Military Rule

Attempts of the students of Tsing Hua to enter Peking were frustrated and the institution is now isolated, according to a statement sent to THE CHINA PRESS yesterday by the Students' Union at the College. Educational institutions in Peking are under military and police vigilance, the message says.

The statement is as follows:

"Last Monday, the 600 students of Tsing Hua College, all in neat uniform, came to the city for the purpose of lecturing to the Police and the Gendarmerie, stating that they would strictly observe the peace and order of the Metropolis. Nevertheless, they were not allowed to enter the Hsichihmen Gate, where upwards of 1,000 soldiers and gendarmes had gathered. After a long dispute the 600 were obliged to go back by a special train, being accompanied by the gendarmes. One report says that had they detained at the gate half-an-hour more, General Wang Huai-ch'ing would have ordered his men to employ violence.

"Since the students' actions of the 4th, educational institutions in Peking have all been under the custody of the Police and the soldiers. Being in a suburb of Peking, Tsing Hua College and the actions of her students have not hitherto been keenly watched. But owing to the incident of Monday last the Gendarmerie sees it wiser to keep an eye on the College. On Tuesday morning a troop of gendarmes stationed themselves in the Dispensary established by the Faculty and students of Tsing Hua outside the College Gate. Besides, a detail of Gen. Wang's horse has been sent down to patrol the two main roads leading from the College to Peking. A great number of spies also frequently appear around the campus. The College is now suffering the same fate as her sister institutions in Peking."

British Ex-Service Men Join Officers In New Association

(Reuter's Service)

London, February 6.—At a meeting of the Imperial ex-Services Association held at Australia House this afternoon, Major-General Sir Frederick Maurice presiding, a resolution was unanimously passed in favor of amalgamating with the Officers Association, and supporting in every way the scheme outlined at the recent inauguration meeting of the latter at the Mansion House on January 31.

Earl Haig in the course of a speech said that he had at heart one great organisation to obtain employment for ex-service men of all ranks in the Empire. He emphasised that they did not want charity but an opportunity to work with the prospect of a happy future.

PEKING LEANING TO JAPANESE ON SHANTUNG ISSUE

Sentiment Of Government Swings Unofficially To Direct Negotiation

BY NATHANIEL PEFFER
(Our Peking Correspondent)

Peking, February 9.—Officially the Shantung question is in status quo. Unofficially it is moving forward toward decision, and that decision seems certain to be direct negotiation.

Early last week it had been planned to present a reply to Japan this week. Now that reply has been delayed. It is hardly likely to be made even next week. The reason is the student movement. There is tense feeling here now and to accept Japan's offer now would only mean to precipitate serious trouble. There will be further postponement therefore until feeling has calmed or until the student movement can be suppressed, which the government has now openly set itself to do. Those two mandates and the statement of the Ministry of Education, in the latter of which it is openly stated that the government's action is taken subsequent to two notes from the Japanese Legation, must be taken in their full significance.

ONLY TWO REASONS

While officially there is postponement, unofficially the sentiment of the government has swung markedly toward direct negotiation. The men who favor a refusal to discuss the retrocession of the Kiaochow Peninsula with Japan directly are now in a decided minority—a minority of power as well as numbers. The problem now is merely how to bring direct discussion about with the least possible public retaliation.

I discussed this question two days ago with one of the secretaries of one of the three highest men in the government. He made the statement that official sentiment was turning strongly toward direct negotiation. I asked why.

"There are three reasons," he said. "First, there is a lack of confidence in the League of Nations, which is the only alternative to direct negotiation. Second, Tsao Ju-lin and Lu Tsung-yu have been working more actively with government officials the last few days. Third, Little Hsu is back."

I suggested that there really were only two reasons, the second and third. He admitted it with a laugh.

SECRET NEGOTIATIONS

The rumors are strong and repeated that unofficial negotiations are already under way at private conferences. There is no concrete and definite substantiation for them—there almost never is objective evidence for any fact in China—but whether there has been actual communication between Chinese and Japanese or not there undoubtedly has been a great deal of communication between Chinese who do Japan's bidding and Chinese in official positions who have the power of decision. Which of course is the most sinister way in which negotiations could possibly be carried on. It should be added that even if negotiations were formal and official, the actual, real discussion would go on at private conferences anyway.

In fact, what could easily have been predicted even before the peace conference in Europe is now seeing fulfillment—whatever happens, the Kiaochow Peninsula will not come back to China. And China—official China—will never try genuinely to get it back.

Just what the process of fulfillment will be it is impossible to say. The government's dilemma is not growing easier with time.

Columbia Gradaate Is Author Of Book On China's Debts

The history of China's domestic and foreign loans and their negotiations and various problems relating to China's indebtedness are told in the 1919 number of the magazine edited by the faculty of political science of Columbia University under the title "Public Debts in China." The magazine has just made its appearance. The author is Mr. F. H. Huang, graduate of the university.

The treatise offers a practical basis for the solution of the perplexing problems which must soon be faced if the natural resources of China are to be developed to the benefit of her people and of the world at large.

Green Star Line Ships To Call Here

Shanghai will be included as a port of call for Green Star Line ships operating between Baltimore, Md., and Far East ports. Telegrams received by the local offices of Messrs. Elcano Fails To Find Survivors From Brisbane

American gunboat found at this village the master of one of the junks which found the gasoline. Early on the morning of the 31st these fishermen in four junks about five miles southeast of Barren Island thought they had run aground. Upon examination they found the sea about them covered with cases of gasoline and kerosene.

"Loading the junks with cases they headed for Shenkiamen 62 miles southwest. One of the junks probably through carelessness went up in flames losing five men. The others arrived safely and sent their prize to Ningpo turning it over to the Standard Oil Company there for salvage.

"The Elcano left Shenkiamen with the master of the junk who found the oil and proceeded on the hazardous search of all the Islands of Chusan, Tai Shan, Tau San, Raffles, Luken, Saddles and finaly Barren Island.

LANDING IMPOSSIBLE

"Inquiries were made of the inhabitants of these Islands but they knew nothing. They were simple and friendly Chinese and had they known of any information they would have been eager to report and receive reward.

"Arriving off Barren Island the exact spot was pointed out some five miles to the southeast where he had found the sea densely covered with the cases of oil over a small area.

"Barren Island is a non-inhabited rock some four hundred yards long rising nearly perpendicular to a height of one hundred and fifty feet. A landing in heavy weather would be impossible. The Elcano cruised near and found nothing in the nature of wreckage or bodies. Had it been possible that a landing was made on the rock they would have died of exposure.

"It is believed that the Brisbane experienced engine trouble and in the face of a northwest storm was driven to the southeast. It is not unlikely that the captain attempted to make anchorage but was wrecked on Barren Rock about midnight on December 30.

"The fact that when the oil was found it covered only a small area of sea is almost conclusive evidence that the Brisbane was wrecked on Barren Island, the nearest rock to the scene of the wreckage."

The Brisbane was insured in the sum of Gold $89,000 with the Union Insurance Company of Canton.

The Whizzbangs team will consist of Cheeseman, F. C. Roberts, D. J. Ellis, Russel, Bluck, Loveluck, Morcher, Enderby, Jessop, J. C. Pury and W. H. Ferris.

United States Turns Over Imperator To England

Captain Appleton and Captain White
INTERNATIONAL

A bugle call marked the lowering of the Stars and Stripes from the taffrail of the giant ocean liner Imperator, as the former vessel was turned over to Great Britain at a pier in Hoboken. Here is shown Captain R. Gracie White (right) who commanded the Imperator when it was in the American transport service and Captain Charles Appleton-Smith, of the Cunard Line, who took charge of the vessel. The Imperator was in Hamburg during the war and was one of the ships given up by the Germans after the signing of the armistice.

TOY PISTOL USED BY ROBBER AS HE LOOTS RESIDENCE

Police Charge That Gang Of Burglars Got $2,000 In House Raid

A toy pistol, of the automatic type, was the principal arm used by a band of eight robbers who looted the residence of Koo Fah-ding, 478 Burkill Road, of $2,000 in property. That was the charge made by the police in the Mixed Court yesterday when Zau Kyung-piau, a doctor, was accused of armed robbery. British Assessor Grant Jones and Magistrate Li remanded the case for two weeks when they were informed that seven other men were involved but had not yet been apprehended.

It was explained to the court that the robbery had not been reported earlier to the police, although it took place in December, because of the absence from the Settlement of Koo, who was in Changchow.

Although no testimony was taken it was learned that the robber band entered the house in the absence of the master and after binding the servants looted the place of various articles. The stolen property, it is understood, consisted of clothing, jewelry and money.

The toy pistol introduced in evidence by the police, together with a knife and pieces of rope, was an imitation of an automatic. It was of American manufacture and closely resembled a genuine firearm.

Japanese Envoy To Italy Returns; Praise For Nitti

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Kobe, Feb. 12.—Mr. Hikokichi Ijuin, Japanese Ambassador at Rome, arrived here yesterday on board the Shiduoka Maru. He left for Tokio this morning.

Mr. Ijuin said that d'Annunzio's abandonment of participation in the Rome-Tokio flight was undoubtedly due to his inability to leave Fiume, but that the whole Italian people were enthusiastically supporting the great flight.

The Ambassador paid a glowing tribute to Signor Nitti, the Italian Premier, as a man of great political ability. The people in Italy, he said, regarded Signor Nitti as the only Italian statesman able to shoulder the great responsibilities of the moment.

SCOTLAND DEFEATS WALES

(Reuter's Service)

London, February 7.—Scotland won the International Rugby football match against Wales at Inverleith today, by 9 points to 5.

PEACE DELEGATES SEE NO HOPE FOR RENEWED PARLEY

in dealing with the Russian problem. He expressed pleasure at Mr. Tang's desire to resume the peace conference immediately.

"But I am not in sympathy with Mr. Tang's attempt to make an unjustified complaint on the military pact," General Wang added.

Will Oppose Election Of New Vice President

The Chief Northern delegate emphatically denied the reports in the Chinese press yesterday that the Peking Parliament will soon elect a vice-president of the Republic and enact a permanent constitution for the country. He said he would vigorously oppose any such action, but has no reasons to believe that Parliament would adopt any such measure when the Shanghai conference is deadlocked.

He sees no hope for an immediate resumption of the peace conference and deplored "the failure of the South to respond" to his efforts. "If the Northern and Southern delegates will agree to resume negotiations, the internal warfare will soon cease," he said.

"As a matter of fact" continued General Wang, "there is no real reason why the North and South should not realise peace in less than 48 hours after the two delegations meet. It is because I am convinced of this that I have remained here all these months. Only my closest personal friends are aware of the personal sacrifices I have had to make in order to stay here and I do not like to refer to them because I am glad to have made them for the good of the country. I only mention them now because of the criticisms that have been hurled at me for remaining here.

"The biggest bone of contention on the part of the South has been its demand for the so-called secret treaties alleged to have been contracted between Peking and Tokio. At the request of the South, I wired the government to send me copies of all such agreements and I have them here now and have had them for several days. I have looked all through them and find nothing in them calculated to injure China—nothing in fact that the South itself would not have agreed to.

Contents Of Secret Pacts Not Harmful

Several agreements for instance had to do with war measures. The war is now at an end and those agreements have lapsed. One had to do with the furnishing of food for Japanese troops in case of a joint expedition to assist the Allies in Europe. Another was the agreement concerning the Shanteh railway. Under this Japan advanced 20,000,000 yen as her share of the joint expenditure. But the agreement provides that when China repays the 20,000,000 yen full control of the road reverts to China. And at present exchange we can repay this money for less than half what it was worth when we got it. And so it goes all the way through. Some of the 'agreements' have lapsed, some are harmless and the rest do not exist at all save in the imaginations of certain agitators."

"How about the disbandment of troops?" was asked.

"We are not only ready but eager for an agreement on that line. China has not the money necessary to the maintenance of large armies and it will be a great relief to the government to get rid of the present heavy military drain. We cannot proceed with this however until we have made peace with the south.

"Peace in China now is a matter of utmost urgency. Whether or not the government negotiates directly with Japan in the Shantung matter, we will come off second best unless we can go into that question with all factions drawn together for the common good and showing a united front. As you have already announced, I have wired the government urging it not to negotiate directly with Japan in this matter."

Military Pact Prolonged, Says Delegate Of South

"If the military pact has been abrogated, why has not Peking notified Tokio," was the question raised by Mr. Tang Shao-yi yesterday when interviewed by THE CHINA PRESS.

He pointed out that the pact had been prolonged twice—by agreements made by Peking on February 10, on the eve of the opening of the internal peace conference, and on March 1, when the conference was in session.

Mr. Tang expressed the belief that the £5,000,000 to be loaned China by Great Britian, France, America and Japan to tide the government over the New Year "will delay rather than hasten the resumption of peace parleys between representatives of the North and the South.

"When the Peking officials get the money, they can pay their troops and there will be a sufficient balance to enable them to have a good time," Mr. Tang said.

"They care nothing for peace; they do not want peace," he added.

Mr. S. T. Tsao, English secretary to the Northern peace delegation, left for Peking last night.

BURMA MARU ON FIRE

According to a telegram received by the Japan Spinning Union (Boseki Rengokai) from Bombay, the O.S.K. steamer Burma, 4,584 tons, caught fire on her way home from Bombay with 28,000 bales of raw cotton on board. She was obliged to call at Colombo. The damage to the steamer is expected to be serious.

Reception Planned For Italian Airmen

Committee Of Shanghai Aero Club To Meet Today To Arrange Details

What form of entertainment will be extended in Shanghai to the Italian fliers now on their way from Rome to Tokio will be discussed this morning at a meeting of the International Committee of the Shanghai Aero Club at the Chamber of Commerce.

A variety of suggestions for welcoming the Italians has been advanced. One proposal was for a public exhibition by local fliers at the Kiangwan race track which would have as its central big feature the arrival of the Italian airmen. It is hoped here that some arrangement can be made by which the whole squadron can make the trip from Canton to Shanghai together so that most of the airmen from Rome will arrive here at the same time.

Those on the committee making arrangements to receive the Italians are: Messrs. C. A. Bona, T. C. Tong, P. C. Chu and Lieut Commander T. S. Chu, who is here as a special commissioner of the Aeronautical department at Peking, and Major William R. McBain.

ring of fire which should advance and scorch out Bolshevism owing to the unlikelihood of all the border states participating and also lack of funds and equipment which neither France, America, Italy nor Great Britain would undertake to furnish.

An alternative solution was to make peace with the Bolsheviki, but observation and experience must first demonstrate that Russia had dropped her barbaric methods and was governing in a civilised manner.

BY TRADE, NOT FORCE

He believed that we could restore Russia to sanity not by force but by trade and commerce which had a sobering effect. Mr. Lloyd George said he did not apprehend a Bolshevik invasion because the Bolsheviki were unable to organise a powerful army and such a motive as the plundering of prosperous provinces did not exist. No Bolshevik force could invade the Middle East and there was nothing they could get, if they did. What was there in the mountains of Armenia and Turkestan and even in Mesopotamia, which the British did not control? He was of opinion that trading would end "the ferocity, rapine and cruelties of Bolshevism" more surely than any other method.

Europe needed what Russia could give. The Prime Minister then gave a summary of the prodigious Russian exports of staple requirements before the war. High prices, he proceeded, were ruling and even starvation was ranging all over Europe, while the cornbins of Russia were bulging with bread. But the necessary transport must be organised and this could not be procured while contending armies were traversing the European borders. The Prime Minister concluded gravely: "The conditions in Europe are serious. The dangers are not all in Russia. They are here at home. I speak with knowledge, with apprehension. I warn the House that there is only one way to fight the things that may happen, we must fight anarchy with abundance."

AMERICANS WILL MAKE BALL THIS YEAR BIG EVENT

Three Thousand Dollars For Chow And Same Amount For Decorations

Decorations that promise to make this year's Washington's Birthday Ball in Shanghai unique in the social annals of the Settlement, show that will be as distinctive as it is attractive. Music that will assure a pleasurable evening and a score of other attractions are promised by the committees managing the affair. The ball is to take place on the evening of February 21 at the Town Hall. This is on the eve of Washington's Birthday but the change was made this year because the actual anniversary falls on Sunday.

Three thousand dollars has been devoted to the catering and an equal sum is being used for the decoration of the hall and similar purposes. A replica of Mount Vernon, Washington's birthplace, is to be one feature of the decorative scheme.

The decorations, as planned could not be duplicated for the amount named if the venture were a private one but the members of the American colony here have declared their determination to make this year's ball a thorough success.

In the culinary department orders have been placed for 400 pounds of roast stuffed turkey, 300 pounds of capon, 150 pounds of select roast beef, 100 pounds of corned beef, 20 smoked tongues, 150 pounds of saddle of lamb, 180 pounds of ham, 2,000 boiled eggs, assorted salads, cream cake, pumpkin pie, apple pie, bread, butter, cheese, coffee, tea, cream, sugar and other good things to eat, too numerous to mention.

Commercial Items

The American flag has now been restored to 41 percent of the world's trade routes through the activities of the United States Shipping Board.

The Mercantile Trust Company and Savings Union Trust Company, leading San Francisco banks, have been merged.

Thirty passengers liners which formerly sailed under the German flag have been offered for sale by the United States Shipping Board to American buyers.

During 1919, 4,617 vessels arrived at the port of San Francisco. Of these steamships totalled a tonnage of 5,259,159 and sailing ships, 788,275 tons.

PART OF MEXICO IN FOREIGN HANDS

Steps Taken To Restore Land In Lower California To The Natives

(Reuter's Service)

Mexico City, January 10 (by mail).—Two thirds of Lower California equal in extent to Cuba and Porto Rico combined, and an area in Chihuahua equal to England, are held by foreign interests, according to Excelsio. The paper states it secured its formation from the agricultural bureau of the Department of Fomento, or development.

These figures are being studied with interest because of the constitutional provision (the famous article 27) barring foreigners from holding land within 100 kilometers of the Mexican frontier and 50 kilometers from the coast line. All lower California, except for a few points in the interior, is in the prohibited area, while Chihuahua also is affected, throughout its long extent of frontier. Congress has been asked to grant the President authority to float loans not to exceed 50,000 pesos for the purpose of indemnifying foreign interest suffering from the application of the constitutional provision in regard to frontier and coast lands.

Local Bodies Rap Students' Arrest

Nine Organisations Denounce Action Of Peking In Holding Protestors

Protesting against Peking action in arresting and injuring student demonstrators against direct negotiation with Japan over Shantung, nine local bodies yesterday addressed a telegram to President Hsu Shih-chang and the Ministries, urging the immediate release of the prisoners and the punishment of the police who repressed them.

The message styles the action as most injurious to the growth of the spirit of nationalism and pointed out that the nation is indignant over the move.

The organisations were the Kiangsu Educational Association, the Western Returned Students' Union, the Chinese Chamber of Commerce in Nantao, the Educational Association of Shanghai, the China Vocational Educational Association, the World's Chinese Students Federation, the Overseas Chinese Union, the Chinese Christians' Union and the Union of Fire Brigades in Shanghai.

Fresh Impetus To Japanese Suffrage Movement Is Seen

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, February 12.—The postponement of the debate on the universal suffrage bill in the House of Representatives has added fresh vigor to the popular movement.

Three mass meetings were held in Osaka last night under the auspices of Labor organisations. The exciting reports of the demonstration in Tokio had undoubtedly thrilled the hearts of the enthusiasts and the meetings at the Tennoji Public Hall, the Tosaburi Y.M.C.A. and the Kujo Citizens Auditorium were all fully attended.

Labor speakers eloquently demanded the immediate enforcement of a universal franchise. One speaker who had recently had interviews with the leading statesmen in Tokio said that they all approved the principle of universal suffrage but that some hesitated, thinking that the time was not yet ripe. The speaker denounced this attitude, saying that the enforcement of justice was never too early. The meetings were orderly and there was no interference on the part of the police.

MEXICO HARD HIT BY SILVER PRICE

Lacks Small Change And Big Commercial Houses Feel Business Decline

(Reuter's Service)

Mexico City, January 5 (by mail).—Mexico is passing through a bitter commercial crisis as a result of the shortage of change. Leading commercial houses in the capital, instead of experiencing the usual 33 percent holiday increase in business during December, reported sales 15 percent less than November.

Without paper currency the country depends on gold and silver coin and the high price of silver has caused an acute shortage of small change, due to illicit exportation and operations of speculators. Money changers are now charging as high as seven percent to change gold coin into silver, and it is reported that gold also is growing scarce. Some business houses who tried to use postal and documentary stamps for change found themselves breaking the law.

Thus far no method of facilitating small purchases has been discovered and, according to semi-official statements, the country will be forced to wait for the price of silver to decline to secure relief. The silver content of the lower coinage has been cut once during the last six months but even the new coins are being hoarded for speculation or exported. While the mint has been working overtime for months, it has been found impossible to keep up with demands.

NEW SHIP LINES OPEN MARKETS OF CHILE TO EUROPE

Italy, France And Sweden Put On Vessels Subsidised By Chileans

(Reuter's Service).

Valparaiso, December 23 (by mail).—Italy, France and Sweden have taken steps to open South American markets by establishing steamship lines to Chilean ports. One Italian steamship company, composed of the Trans-atlantica, Italiana and the Nacional de Navigacion, already has sent two steamers to Chile by the Panama route. It is announced that the company intends to add ten more steamers to the line, making a total of six passenger and six freight vessels which will voyage alternately by the Straits of Magellan and the Panama canal.

The government of Chile has agreed to subsidise these ships by payment of £700 for each cargo shipped and £900 to each passenger and freight vessel.

More recently the Italian Navigation company has sent to Chile its steamer La Veloce. The Compagnie Generale Transatlantique announces that direct communication will be established between Havre and Valparaiso by way of Panama by the use of the steamer San Luis. The Swedish company has resumed service to Chile and there is talk of a Dutch line of steamers from Java by the way of Australia.

As a result of these activities freights have begun to decline. This has stimulated the commerce of all the west coast and especially the exportation of nitrate and the agricultural products of Chile.

Peking Students Say Lu Is Unable To Act Freely

The report in the Chinese press that Dr. Wellington Koo has cabled to Peking that the League of Nations will not take up the Shantung controversy was denied by Dr. C. T. Wang, China's peace envoy at Versailles yesterday when he was interviewed by four students who had fled to this port from Peking and Tientsin: Hsu Teh-yien, Chang Kuo-san, Chi Tai-peng and Loo Kia-lung.

The student delegation described to Dr. Wang the manner in which the Peking demonstrators were suppressed and said the hands of Mr. Lu Cheng-hsiang are tied as soon as he reaches Peking.

While Dr. Wang was emphatic in opposing direct negotiation with Japan over the Shantung issue, he said as a diplomatic agent he was unable to declare publically his personal views on the matter.

COUNCIL ELECTION EARLY NEXT WEEK

The election of Municipal Councillors for the ensuing year will take place Monday and Tuesday between 10 o'clock in the morning and 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Fifteen have been nominated for the nine seats on the council.

The nominees are Messrs. A. Brooke-Smith of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Company, C. M. Bain of Messrs. Maitland and Company and Mr. D. Goh, the present Japanese member. A. E. Algar, M. Benjamin, E. T. Byrne, G. M. T. Edkins, Sterling Fessenden, A. J. Hughes, W. P. Lambe, J. F. Macgregor, P. A. Cox, H. A. Macintyre and Dr. S. A. Ransom.

Of the 15 nominees, two are Americans: Mr. Sterling Fessenden, of Messrs. Jernigan; Fessenden and Rose, and Dr. S. A. Ransom.

KIANGFOO AGROUND

The Kiangfoo of the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company went aground near Whangchau, 53 miles from Hankow while on the way from Hankow to Shanghai. Lighters have been sent from Hankow in order that the steamer may be lightened. It is believed by the local offices of the Company that the Kiangfoo was not damaged seriously.

China Political Notes From Chinese Papers

The sum of $1,200,000 was spent by China at the Versailles Conference, according to the report of Mr. Lu Cheng-hsiang, Chief Envoy to Paris.

One soldier of the third battalion of recruits in Tsinan was electrocuted and another injured when a telegraphic post was destroyed by drunken troops of the unit Thursday morning. A number of shots were fired by the disorderly troops.

Mr. Lu Cheng-hsiang has moved out of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and has decided to resign. The resignation of Mr. Chen Lu is withdrawn.

The Cabinet proposes to nominate Mr. Sun Pao-chi for the Foreign portfolio. Sun, however, refuses to accept, it is understood.

The Government still urges Mr. Liu Ching-jen to assume his new post in Tokio. The report that Mr. Chiang Ching-koo will be appointed has been denied.

Premier Chin has assumed a non-committal attitude recently and spends only a few hours in the Cabinet.

According to a Harbin telegram, the situation appears to be critical, tension between Japanese and Bolshevists is high. A clash is expected at any time.

A telegram from General Yang Cheng-hsin of Sinkiang states that the Bolshevists have ousted the Russian Consul-General at Eli and are searching the district for him. The Government has instructed General Yang to exercise his right of harboring and give him all the necessary protection.

The Government has learned that the Southwest has given financial aid to General Wu Pei-fu to the extent of $300,000. It has telegraphed to its agent in Hongkong to investigate the matter.

Tsing Hua Students Demand Credentials Of New President

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, February 9.—The new Board of Directors of Tsing Hua College has been organised. Dr. Philip Tyau and Dr. Hawkling Yen represent the Waichiaopu and Mr. W. R. Peck represents the United States Legation. Last Saturday, at 11 a.m. Dr. Tyau and Mr. Peck spoke before the student body and the faculty of Tsing Hua College, announcing the new regulations governing the management of the college and persuading the students to accept Mr. C. Y. Loh for their new president. They said that the students had no reason for refusing to do so and proceeded to refute some of the arguments held by them. However, they did not say that Mr. Loh was absolutely fit for the position, but stated, as a sort of compromise on the part of the Waichiaopu, that Mr. Loh would first go through a two or three months' period of probation and that he would be removed at the end of the period if found incompetent.

Some of the students said that they considered this sort of compromise to be detrimental to the future of Tsing Hua College, badly in need of reform. They added that Tsing Hua was not a laboratory in which to experiment on one's educational skill. Then the directors again explained how Mr. Loh could be the president of the college, giving details about his scholarship.

But the students asked; "How about his record of educational work? Will you please give us some information? The Waichiaopu must be in full possession of necessary facts, upon which is based the conclusion that Mr. Loh is qualified for the presidency of an educational institution."

The Directors left the Tsing Hua auditorium without answering that question, which gives the crux of the whole situation.

Serious Fire Is Checked Quickly

Carelessness of coolies who installed a stove in the four-story building of the Hanyehping Iron Company at 36 Szechuen Road caused a fire yesterday morning that threatened serious consequences. Prompt response of two sections of the Central section of the Settlement Fire Department and quick work in checking the flames saved the building.

It was another case, of the type often reported recently, in which the pipe from the stove had been run through to an air shaft, according to the fire department officials. A great beam was set on fire and the flames threatened to wreck the whole structure.

Police Inspector Honored By Force On Eve Of Leave

Police Inspector M. Gibson, who is to depart for England on long leave next Thursday, was the guest of honor at a farewell party given last night by his co-workers at the Central Police Station. He was presented with a gold wrist watch, suitably engraved, as a token of the esteem of the force.

Chief Inspector T. I. Vaughan made the speech of presentation and told the departing official how highly his services and friendship have been valued by the men who have been associated with him in police work here since 1900.

Inspector Gibson is a popular official who has made an excellent record on the force.

Shortage Of Beds Reported In Hongkong

Writing in The China Mail at Hongkong, "M.M." says:

We know of sixteen Europeans looking for house accommodation in Kuala Lumpur. The hotels are generally full. Local travelers may and sometimes do find it impossible to get a room. F. M. S. Railways, allow such people to sleep in the waiting room if they cannot find any other place to go to. And is it not something approaching a scandal that while such a state of affairs exists the old Rest House should have been lying empty for weeks? Could not the Government arrange with the Empire Hotel or the Selangor Club to provide temporary sleeping accommodation here for stranded newcomers?

'Nosebag Habit' Is Ridiculed In Japan

The nosebag habit, says the Japan Chronicle has taken strong root during the present epidemic of influenza, though it was unknown in that of the autumn of 1918. This is a reversal of the experience of other countries, where they have used the muzzles in the first epidemic and discarded them as a superstition in the second. The Japanese chemists are doing an excellent business in the new respirators, which might possibly have the effect of limiting the infectious spluttering of an influenza patient, but would hardly afford a serious obstacle to the breathing in of free floating germs—if indeed, that is the method by which infection is achieved. It is a delightful sight to see Japanese gentlemen walking over the hills on a Sunday taking the fresh air through a respirator! They may be observed at a height of a couple of thousand feet and far from any human habitation, wearing the mask with all the solemnity of a religious emblem. In the trams, on the other hand, vitiated air plus a mask is more than flesh and blood can bear, and off comes the mask!

Buddhist Monk Is Accused Of Bigany

Says The South China Morning Post:

A monk belonging to the Temple of the Five Hundred Genii at Canton is reported to have committed the offence of taking two women as wives. His second wife is said to have been the widow of a German who lived in Canton until the outbreak of the war when he left his Chinese wife with two young children to join the German army. Since then no world has been received from him and his wife married the Buddhist monk, thinking that her German husband might have been killed in the war.

Swedish Syndicate To Get China Antiquities

A syndicate of Swedish business men has purchased the famous collection of Chinese antiquities, formerly owned by Li Hung-chang, with a view to putting them up for auction in New York. A few choice pieces will be presented to the national Museum in Stockholm.

German Missionaries To Recover Property

The Administrative Council of Canton has decided to modify the regulations governing the treatment and disposal of properties belonging to Germans and Austrians within the jurisdiction of the Constitutionalist territory, says The South China Morning Post. All properties of German and Austrian church missions and missionaries are to be turned over to the custody of the German and Austrian missionaries of the respective missions or to Chinese persons of those missions, with the exception of those under certain special conditions which are to be taken care of by the Special Property Bureau under the Military Government.

This modification in the regulations concerning German and Austrian interests is in harmony with the regulations recently adopted by the Peking Government after the proclamation restoring the state of peace with Germany and Austria was issued. The action of the Administrative Council in this respect was taken at the request of the Ministry of Interior some time ago.

Five Gunboats Seized In Rice Smuggling Plot

A Canton despatch says:

Commander Chow Wai-nam, of the Bocca Tigris forts, in an official telegram to Tuchun Mo Yung-hsin, reports the capture on the 29th ult. of the five gunboats at Shakok near Bocca Tigris which were engaged in the smuggling of rice out of the province. The names of the captured gunboats are Luen On, Ying On, Loy On; Kwei On and Kong Ping, and 109 persons were arrested. According to Commander Chow's report, more than ten gunboats were seen coming down the river fully laden with smuggled rice, but the others managed to escape in the darkness, the fight lasting for two hours.

Since the capture of the gunboats, numerous telegrams have been sent to the authorities by the people appealing for severe punishment of the smugglers, three of whom have been sent to the Tuchun's Yamen for trial.

Hungry Bandits Loot Shark Fin Storehouse

Says the South China Morning Post:

The accountant of a shark fin shop at No. 194, Des Voeux Road West, reports that at 7:45 p.m. on Monday five men gained admittance to the first floor by representing themselves to be friends of his master. Two of them produced revolvers and threatened to kill him and the other employes if they refused to keep quiet while another robber stood guard at the door with a dagger. The robbers broke open two boxes from which they extracted $1,100. One of the employes was stabbed in the back but the wound was not serious.

Slavers Use Trick To Procure Victims

Girl-slave procurers are getting unusually bold of late. One of their new tricks to entrap innocent girls, according to the Canton press, is to snap kodak pictures of girls on the bund and other public highways. Letters and the pictures are then mailed to the homes of the innocent girls with a view to arousing the suspicion of the parents, who usually fall into the trap and expel the victims from home.

Wagons Lits Offices Are Ordered Closed

Orders have come to the Wagons Lits offices in China to close up sine die, the alleged reason being the hopelessness of an early restoration of the Trans-Siberian Railway, says the North China Daily Mail.

This order affects Peking, Tientsin, Shanghai, Yokohama, Harbin, Vladivostok and all places which have International Sleeping Car Company's offices established and will presumably deprive a number of people their employment, unless the foreigners on the Company's staff are recalled and given employment in some of the European Branches.

Telephones Cut Out To Hamper Students

Says the Peking Daily News of February 7:

Owing to the students' agitation, the authorities have ordered the telephone office to cut off telephonic communications between the different schools and the outside world. Those who tried to ring up the Government University yesterday were told by the telephone operators that no further communication with the institution would be allowed until further notice.

Money Is Advanced By Banks For New Year

The Central China Post Says:

In order to keep the market quiet during China New Year the local Bank of China and Bank of Communications have advanced cash shops $300,000. They have also requested their head offices to send further amounts to Hankow.

Mr. Tang Shao-yi's Appeal For Peace

THE remarkable appeal which Mr Tang Shao-yi, Chief Southern Delegate, has addressed to the Canton Government, pleading with it to withdraw its objection to the personnel of the Northern Delegation, was generally interpreted yesterday as being the strongest effort that has yet been made for the reopening of the Peace Conference. Mr. Tang says:

"Which is more important—internal peace or the personnel of the delegation? When the people pay greater attention to the personnel of the delegation than to the problems of peace they are not patriotic. You gentlemen of the Government in Canton in your attitude and in your vision ought to be superior to those who are conducting the affairs at Peking. Can you suggest any way to resume the peace conference though you have blocked its preceedings heretofore? A remedy must be found. After all both the North and the South belong to the same family. We are all in one. We can disregard the character and the personality of any individual altogether, if his intentions are genuinely for the benefit of the nation. To serve our country we must sacrifice our personal difference and feelings."

Strangely, however, General Wang Yi-tang, the Chief Northern Delegate, who has been made the target of bitter attacks by the South, which up to now has refused to sit in conference with him, does not think that Mr. Tang's message has brought the Peace Conference measurably nearer. In the interview which we publish today he accuses Mr. Tang of insincerity because the latter included in his address a reference to the military pact between China and Japan.

With the rest of Mr. Tang's argument, General Wang is in hearty agreement but as to the so-called military pact he asserts that it was made during the war, that all its provisions related to the war and that now that the war is at an end, the pact itself has lapsed. Mr. Tang replies to this by saying that this pact is more far-reaching than Peking is willing to admit and that Peking and Tokio have recently exchanged notes extending its life indefinitely.

The probability is that both gentlemen are partly in the right. Likely as not the agreement was extended in order that China might furnish certain supplies to Japanese troops in Siberia. But in our opinion Mr. Tang's reference to the military pact, whether such reference was justified or not, should not be permitted to stand in the way of a rapproachment. General Wang has promised that when the Southern delegates sit down in conference with him he will put every agreement that exists between China and Japan on the table for their information. He has also been quoted as saying that he has no objection to their publication at that time. He maintains that there is nothing in them to warrant secrecy at this time, although at the time of their making military reasons did warrant secrecy.

On the whole, it is evident from the statements of the two chief delegates that peace will not be concluded before the China New Year. And while this is to be regretted, there is cause for congratulation in the more hopeful situation which has been created by their frank utterances. The necessity of peace in China requires no stressing and the outlook now is that we shall have it shortly after the New Year. Mr. Tang puts the case clearly when he says:

"Gentlemen of the Government of Canton, you know full well that you have no remedy which will break the deadlock which has come to be out of the dispute as to the personnel of the delegation; yet you know equally well that peace is absolutely necessary. Be decisive and hasten to effect the union of the country so that we shall present a solidarity before the critical diplomatic situation which is facing the nation."

The Old Man Of The Sea Again

BY LOVAT FRASER
(London Daily Mail)

Three weeks ago I ventured to say that the Coalition was fast disintegrating. So far as the electorate is concerned, it is now dead. The blow dealt it in the Spen Valley election is mortal.

Mr. Lloyd George's Government may retain an imposing majority in the House of Commons, but outside Westminster the Coalition has ceased to exist. The disgusted country is turning as hard as flint against it.

The dramatic feature of the by-elections at Spen Valley, Bromley, and St. Albans has been the heavy increase in the Labor vote, which is due to two main causes. The first is that many Liberals of all grades are joining the ranks of Labor. The second, and far more potent cause, is that the lower middle classes are leaving the older political parties and voting Labor too.

Why? I am not writing here of the old-fashioned Labor vote, but of "the man in the black coat." He was the kind of man who in the old days would never have dreamed of voting Labor, but plumped for either Liberal or Tory. He has watched the wages of manual labor and the skilled craftsmen being doubled or trebled. He has stood by while the Labor leaders have made of Downing-street a second home, and have got whatever they wanted. His eyes are opened, and he has said quite naturally: "If that's the game, I will vote Labor too."

But this question of the salaries of the lower middle classes is by no means the sole explanation of the widespread transfer of political support we are now witnessing, for many men with £1,000 a year, £1,500 a year, and even £2,000 a year are going over to Labor also. I have heard men in receipt of large incomes say: "If there is a by-election in my constituency I shall vote Labor. Anything to smash this disastrous Coalition!" Again one asks, Why?

The answer is: taxation. The most desperate men in the country today are the middleaged middle-class men in receipt of what were once regarded as good incomes. They consider themselves doomed. They perceive that they have not the smallest chance of making provision for their old age. They have no margin for saving, and must toil till they die. I make bold to say that almost the whole of the professional classes, in particular, hold Mr. Lloyd George and the Coalition in absolute detestation, and for very good reasons. They do not mind heavy taxation for the cost of the war. Far from it, for they recognise that it is their duty to pay for the freedom won by those who made the greatest sacrifice of all. What has appalled them is the wanton extravagance and squandering of the Government since the Armistice.

The first mortal blow at the Coalition was delivered not by Spen Valley, but by Mr. Lloyd George himself. He committed political suicide in the economy debate at the end of October. He was foolish enough to declare that there had been no extravagance, while Mr. Chamberlain, with a great many hesitating "ifs," said there would be no further taxation. The economy debate marks the breach between the Government and the middle classes.

Expenditure and taxation; the incessant development of a domineering bureaucracy; the steady growth of high prices as a result of the inflation of the currency and the reckless expansion of Government credits; and the collapse of the gigantic autumn program are the rocks on which the Coalition has split. The October speeches taught the middle classes that there was no hope of financial regeneration while Mr. Lloyd George and his spendthrift colleagues remained in power. They saw that Asquithism was dead, as is proved by the fate of Sir John Simon. In despair they have voted Labor.

One other point must be noted here. Though the women are not yet exercising the franchise freely, Mr. Lloyd George has completely lost the confidence of the women voters. It may be safely predicted that the women's vote will always be cast for moderate taxation and economy in administration. In their direct and instinctive way the women have perceived that Mr. Lloyd George is the king of spendthrifts, and he will get no mercy from them.

Yet it must not be said that the new tendency to vote Labor is solely due to hatred of the Coalition and its wanton follies and failures. In part it is unquestionably the outcome of a profound and epoch-making revolution of thought among men who are not engaged in manual labor. They are coming to believe that the future lies in a new creation of parties, and they dream of a Labor Party which shall include not only manual labor but also the best and most progressive minds of all classes. They see visions of a Labor Party which shall be composed of the finest elements in the State, in which Labor influence shall predominate, and which shall be kept in power by a solid Labor vote in which brain-workers and black coats will find a place.

These men are not party hacks running like rats from a sinking ship. They are not self-seeking. They seek only the salvation of Britain. They are mostly men who have hitherto troubled little about politics. They are a new class of politicians altogether, inspired by no ulterior motives. Very largely they are drawn from men of all ranks in the returned armies. When I revisited the British front towards the close of the war I found that men were thinking a great deal harder there than was the case at home. I heard generals of great eminence say that the salvation of the country would ultimately rest with the Labor Party, and that they were willing to enrol themselves in its ranks. These great soldiers wanted no more war.

The Daily Mail is always good enough to permit me to express my own personal convictions without let or hindrance. I therefore wish to add that in my view the Labor Party is not yet fitted to undertake the government of this old and complex country, though it is fast qualifying for political responsibility.

The Labor Party has not yet found itself or risen fully to its opportunities. It has no real national program, save only in the sectional interests of manual labor. It has no foreign policy, save such as is represented by the scurryings to and fro of Mr. Ramsay Macdonald and his political brethren at mysterious conferences on the Continent. Many of its extreme members were tainted with unworthy pacifism during the war, and are now dallying with a silly creed of Bolshevism-and-water. Some are exponents of the "class war." Others are frankly out for spoliation. Others, again, are bemused by the deceptive word "nationalisation."

The Labor Party today is more bureaucratic than the Coalition, and in the matter of expenditure its aims are more extravagant than any other political organisation. It was a complete failure in Parliament last year, partly because of bad leading, partly because many of the Labor members persistently neglected their parliamentary duties but mostly because Labor has not realised that a man may be a most worthy district trade union official, and yet wholly unfitted for Parliament. I consider that last year's failure shows that the time is not ripe for a Labor Government; but the ripening process is at work.

Meanwhile too much should not be read into the transfer of the middle-class vote to Labor. Part of the transfer represents the spread of trades unionism among the salaried black-coated men, which is permanent; part is the expression of the new and sympathetic forces I have described, which Labor will be wise to welcome; but a great deal is due to a fervent desire to get rid of Mr. Lloyd George and the Coalition at any cost, and is probably only temporary.

Our system of government requires the existence of two great parties in the State. The future lies between Labor and the party now misnamed Unionist. The Unionist Party has an immense future before it, only it does not know it. It will have to remodel itself on more progressive lines, and shed the domination of the Walter Longs and the Carlton Club. It must repair the mistake it made when it delivered itself to the weak leadership of Mr. Bonar Law.

That it means to shake off the burden of its Old Man of the Sea, the Prime Minister, is sufficiently plain. The handwriting flames upon the wall. There is no room for Mr. Lloyd George in the ranks of either Unionism or Labor. Powerful parties renewing their strength and starting on a new career have no use for an opportunist Prime Minister whose only conception of policy is to stave off the day of retribution for another month or two. Mr. Lloyd George was a good leader in war, but has failed in peace-time after being given his chance. The nation will always be grateful to him for the fine part he played in the attainment of victory. It expressed its gratitude at the last election, but gratitude will cut no ice when next the electors walk up to the polling-booths.

Man And His Machine

"The daring endurance of the men and the miraculous endurance of the machine ought to renew our faith in the grit and genius of our breed," says the London Star. "Let us drop our pessimism and take heart of grace.

"Let us apply the inventive genius of our engineers and the energy of our young men to the job of making this old earth fit to live in. What tasks await us! We have got to save Europe from chaos. We have got to cut out the insanity of war and race-hatred. We have got to organise the brotherhood of man so as to bring good out of the evil of the war-tragedy. We can do it, if we think hard and work hard and love hard.

"Surely, the creature who can lick space can get rid of his ancestral barbarisms and make civilisation run as sweetly as a Rolls-Royce engine."

Girls Still Must Leave Proposals To Men

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

I have before me a letter from a girl which is the counterpart of others which I receive from time to time from many different parts of the country.

These vary somewhat in detail, but they are the same in essence. The story remains unaltered.

The heroine meets the hero. They see a great deal of each other and the mutual attraction grows. He shows every sign of being deeply in love with her. Then, for some reason, usually at the beckoning of business, he departs for some distant place. The letters between them are at first very frequent; then gradually or abruptly his cease. She hears no more of him.

After detailing these facts, the girl whose letter I am considering asks me what she had better do. She cannot understand this silence on the part of the young man. She is convinced that he is ill, or that some dreadful misfortune has befallen him. She cannot endure the anxiety, and she feels as if she must discover the reason for it all. She is even ready to take the train and go to him if necessary. Can I give her an idea of what to do?

GIRL MUST WAIT

I am sorry, but I can only suggest that she do nothing. All of the things she fears may be true, but the chances are against such possibilities. And she will only be putting herself in an unpleasant position if she pursues the matter.

She will have to balance the contingencies which give her so much alarm against other contingencies, equally unpleasant, but which nevertheless she is bound to consider.

He may have changed his mind in a new environment and surrounded by new influences. He may have met another girl whom he finds more attractive than the girl he left behind him. He may have become immersed in business and have decided that he does not wish to be tied down to a long engagement. And in consideration of all these possible circumstances, it is only sensible for the girl to let him begin the correspondence again, since he was the first to drop it.

The same girl who has written regarding this quandary has also put another question up to me:

Should girls propose? And if not, why not?"

That is a question which has been threshed out again and again; but it is evident that it still remains undecided in certain feminine minds.

WOMAN AT DISADVANTAGE

What, my dear girl, is such a proposal as you suggest? That the young man of your choice and yourself should be married and that he should thereafter take you for better or for worse, look after you in sickness and health, and provide for your support and maintenance as long as you both shall live.

It is certainly a large proposition, and as such it has its dangers. It gives the man an awful comeback. He can comport himself as he pleases and, no matter how much you may remonstrate with him, the answer will always be ready, "I didn't ask you to marry me."

The effects of overstepping a convention are sometimes more unpleasant than the effects of committing a crime. If you steal his watch, he might forgive and forget it; provided he were desperately in love with you, he might either get mushy over it or be amused by it, according to his nature. In one case he would say, "The poor, little darling needed the money and her maiden modesty prevented her from asking for it," and the ready tears would spring to his eyes. Or he would laugh and say, "Best joke that ever happened. She stole my watch. Clever girl!"

But the chances are that if you asked him to marry you he would turn it over in his mind to kingdom come.

Whenever you did the least thing of which he did not approve, he would murmur to himself: "What can you expect. There's something wrong about her. She asked me to marry her. It's not done. Queer streak she has. No really nice, refined girl would do such a thing. It simply is not done."

ONE EXCEPTIONAL CASE

I know, however, of one happy marriage where the woman proposed to the man. She was rich, and he was poor and hard-working and ambitious. She saw that he was in love with her, but would not ask her to marry him while he had so little to offer. So she asked him instead, and financed certain of his business schemes, which prospered exceedingly; and they have lived happily ever afterward. But such cases are the exceptions.

No matter how puzzled and heartbroken you may be, my dear girl, you do not really want to marry a man whose actions would seem to show that he had become indifferent to you; and neither do you want to put yourself in any position which you would find humiliating. If he really cares for you, you will hear from him sooner or later; and if he does not you will have saved your self-respect, which is something.

Swedish Methods With Alcohol

Legitimate trade in alcoholic liquors is considered an effective instrument in Sweden when correctly used "to curb the illegitimate traffic, to diminish the evil effects of alcohol, and to educate individuals as well as the whole people to a sense of greater responsibility." So we are informed by Dr. Ivan Bratt, who is the author and director of the Stockholm system of alcohol control, which is effective throughout Sweden. In the last five years Sweden has passed through three successive stages in the use of alcohol: free sale, restrictive regulation, and almost total prohibition. The first two were from choice, the last from necessity, due to the shortage of stock during the war. In The American-Scandinavian Review (New York) Dr. Bratt sums up Sweden's experience by the statement that "the curve of restriction and consumption went down together until the former reached a point below the minimum craving of human nature, when there was a rebound manifesting itself chiefly in a sudden increase of convictions for drunkenness caused by the use of denatured spirits." The first stage, that of free sale, is known as the Goteborg system, and has as underlying principle the elimination of private profit from the sale of drink. We read:

"The private dealer naturally tries to increase his sales as much as possible; the companies tried instead to decrease them by curtailing the number of places where liquor could be sold and limiting the time of sales. They also attempted to wipe out the mischievous effects of the traffic as much as possible by closing saloons and establishing good, cheap restaurants for workingmen where drinks were served together with food. These companies are still in existence. Their stockholders can receive only 5 percent on the capital invested, while the rest of the profit goes to the community to be applied to various public purposes. Two of the five directors are elected by the local stockholders, the rest are appointed by the local authorities. The Goteborg system has done much good by stamping out the terrible saloon evil of former days, and it may be wondered at that I should call it a system of free sales. I do so because it had no means of reaching the individual consumer. Any one, no matter what his personal or social standing, could buy liquor, use or abuse it according to his good pleasure, occasionally or habitually, without any danger of having his privilege curtailed. Another very serious drawback was the provision allowing the companies to transfer their rights to commercial dealers, who of course, looked out for their own profits. In this way its alleged moral purpose had become an empty phrase, although the quasi-fiscal character of an institution which brought into the coffers of the state twenty million kronor annually could not but be acknowledged."

The present legislation regulates the sale of all alcoholic drinks with the exception of the weakest malt beverage of not more than 3.6 percent alcohol, and went into effect in the beginning of 1919. While observations on its results may seem premature, we are reminded that the method was voluntarily tried out by certain companies as early as 1914, and the law concerning distilled liquors has been in force since 1918, though it was not extended to include wines until 1919. Recurring to the Goteborg system, which paved the way for the present method, we are advised that the sale of liquor in restaurants, known as the "on" sale, had decreased to a point where it constituted only one-tenth of the whole consumption. The other nine-tenths consisted of "off" sale, that is, where liquor is carried away from the premises. It was clear that to be effective, control must deal with the man who buys liquor and carries it home with him; and to this end Sweden introduced the motbok, of which we read:

"The motbok is a small book of detachable coupons on which the owner writes his name, leaving one as a receipt for each purchase of goods. He can buy only in the store in his own district, where a card is kept with his signature, and at every purchase his signature must be compared with that on the card. In the central office of the company a card index is kept containing the names of those who own a motbok as well as those who have applied for one. There are also cards listing those who have had a motbok and been deprived of it, those who have applied and been refused, and finally those who have not applied but who are known to the central office as persons who, in case they should apply, ought not to have their request granted. The courts and other officials are obliged to give reports concerning persons who for some reason or other have come in contact with the laws of the community."

As has been said, the Goteborg system paved the way for the present one by eliminating private profit from the sale of liquor. Now, in order to complete the individual control, the new system divides the country into one hundred and twenty districts, each with its own Stockholm system company, and the writer proceeds:

"All these companies are supplied with their stock of wine and spirits from a wholesale organisation known as the Wine and Spirits Central, which is affiliated with the Stockholm system and has been formed by the latter through the buying up of all the private wine and liquor firms in the country—about one hundred and fifty in all—as well as all the alcohol factories.

"No one can manufacture alcohol except the system companies, and these do not do so. No one can import wines or spirits without special permission from the Board of Control, and at present there is no one who has sought or has reason to seek such permission from the Board of Control, and at present there is no one who has sought or has reason to seek such permission for business purposes. Importation by private individuals must be made through the proper system company. In this manner the Wine and Spirits Central with its affiliated companies is the only wholesale organisation in the liquor trade and is able to exercise complete control over all the stock in the country, both as to genuineness and as to proper labeling. All profits of the company go to the state treasury through the Stockholm system.

In rendering account of the results of Sweden's revolutionary method, Dr. Bratt, for the sake of brevity, limits himself to Stockholm, where conditions are most difficult. After the introduction of the motbok in February, 1914, there was such an improvement in the general morale that it was acknowledged "even by opponents of the law." This improvement went on steadily until the beginning of 1918, which time may be said to be the breaking-point in the system of rational restriction, because then the abnormal conditions due to the war had reached such a pass that consumption had to be curtailed beyond what would otherwise be considered reasonable." The results were unhappy:

"With the beginning of 1918, we began to feel the disadvantages of a restriction that was based on scarcity of goods and not on principle. The difficulties in the way of a private individual satisfying what he considered legitimate and moderate demands had then reached such a point that a motbok had a commercial value. When the price of a liter of spirits, in the trade between man and man, had risen to fifty, sixty, or even one hundred kronor, one can hardly wonder that even respectable people fell into the temptation of selling illegally what they had obtained on their motbok. At the same time, the private distillation of brandy, which had been unknown in Sweden for the last seventy years, flourished again, so that apparatus were manufactured by the tens of thousands and were actually advertised in the newspapers. Alcohol for technical purposes, especially motor spirits, was purified for drinking in spite of all the precautions that could be taken against it. The result was that drunkenness and alcoholic diseases increased again to an appalling extent. Of the one hundred and thirty cases of delirium tremens in the Central Hospital one hundred and twelve were due to home-distilled brandy or denatured spirits. In the fourth quarter of 1918, 1,166 cases of drunkenness could be traced to denatured spirits against only 56 in the fourth quarter of 1917.

"The police have been powerless against this epidemic of crime and disease. They declare that it is not due so much to the consumers themselves as to the sharks who grow rich on distilling brandy and purifying denatured spirits for commercial purposes. It is the general opinion among those qualified to judge that, when the end of the war makes it possible to increase the rations to normal again, home distillation will, practically cease, and the actions of those who try to make money on the weakness of their fellow men will be branded by public opinion as shameful and criminal."

'Lend Me Your Rubber'

Booth Tarkington, the novelist, is said to tell with gusto this story concerning himself and another popular author:

"I was strolling around an artists' Red Cross fair when two pretty 'flappers' of sixteen or so came up and asked me for my autograph. 'I haven't got a fountain pen,' I said, much flattered. 'Will a pencil do?' 'Yes,' said the other 'flapper,' and so I took out my pencil and signed my name in the morocco-bound book that she had given me.

"The flapper studied the signature with a frown. Then she looked up and said: 'Aren't you Robert W. Chambers?' 'No,' said I, 'I'm Booth Tarkington.'

"The 'flapper' turned to her friend with a shrug of disgust. 'Lend me your rubber, May,' she said."

"One leads where many follow."

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Hall's Distemper (Registered Trade Mark) is a unique preparation and has the recommendation of leading sanitary authorities, architects, and decorators everywhere.

Harry Lauder Used To Mine Coal, And Could Do It Now

The brawny frame of Harry Lauder was developed, it seems, by digging coal, and it is a cheering thought that if we have another strike this winter, his good right arm may help keep our home fires burning. "Sir Harry Lauder" he is now, and the war has tried and changed him through the death of his son, but still he puts on the grease paint, tells his droll stories, makes his amusing grimaces, and sings the folk-songs of Scotland. "Tell me all about yourself," requested Fred Lockley, interviewer-at-large for the Oregon Journal, as they sat in Sir Harry's dressing-room at a theater at Los Angeles.

"Well, I'll go ahead and get ready to go on. You ask me questions," said the comedian. Mr. Lockley reports the following events and conversation:

As he doffed his street garb and got ready to don his kilts I said, "How did you get those bulging muscles?" He said: "Feel my leg. Now feel my arm. Solid, eh? I got that working at the face of the seam in a coal-mine as a coal-hewer. I kept fit by constant exercise. When I am not on the road I cut down trees and work them up into firewood, dig ditches, and keep in physical trim. I am five feet three inches tall. I weigh 170 pounds. My chest is forty-two inches around. My waist much less.

"My middle name is MacLennon. That was my mother's maiden name. My mother's clan was from the Black Isle, in the north of Scotland. That's it; my full name is Harry MacLennon Lauder. My father was a potter. He made pots and jars and other clay articles by hand. I was born at Portobello, near Edinburgh, August 14, 1870. My father's earnings were meager. There were many mouths to feed. There were seven in our family—five boys and two girls.

"If you have been in Scotland you know that at Dundee, at Fife, and at Arbroath there are flax-mills. When I was eleven I went to work in the flax-mills at Arbroath as a flax-dresser. We got our raw flax from Russia. I was a half-timer. Most of the lads and lassies thereabout were half-timers. We went to school every other day. I was paid two shillings and a penny a week, which went into the family fund.

"You should go to Arbroath. That's where Sir Ralph the Rover came to grief. As he sailed away he took the bell from Bell Rock for his ship's bell. It warned mariners of the dangerous rocks. The first wreck on Bell rocks was the ship of Ralph the Rover as he sailed home again. He found what all of us find in time, that 'What ye sow that shall ye also reap.'

"For a year I worked as flax-dresser at Arbroath; then my people moved to a colliery district near Hamilton in Lanarkshire, and I went to work as a trapper in the coal-mines. It was my job to open the trap-door and let the pony with a load of empties come in and the pony with the full rake of cars of coal come out. I spent ten years at work underground. From trapper I rose to be driver and then to coal-hewer.

"I worked under a man whose daughter I later married. Annie Vallance was my wife's maiden name.

"Even when I was a wee laddie I was fond of singing. I used to sing at contests and at amateur recitals. Finally I became so much in demand that when they had me sing and recite at paid entertainments they offered me two shillings and sixpence for my evening's program. Did I take it? Why, man, I flew at it like a cock at a ripe gooseberry. After two years I raised my price to five shillings for an evening's program. Two years later I raised to seven shillings and sixpence for my services. Many's the week I would put in three evenings at that figure. With what I earned at singing and reciting, added to the thirty shillings a week I made as a coal-miner, I saw I was on the high road to fortune.

"I did my last work as a coal-miner in June, 1894. I quit my job in the mine to go on the road as a Scotch comedian, with the Kennedys, the Scottish entertainers.

"I was fourteen when I first started going with Annie. She was eighteen and I twenty when we were married, twenty-nine years ago, by the Rev. Dr. Wallace, the Presbyterian dominie. I mind when I was going with her I said to her one night 'Annie, if you will marry me I'll make you a lady some day.' I was always joking. She squeezed my arm and said, 'I'll have you anyway, Harry, lady or no lady.' We were in Australia when word came to me that the King had made me Knight Commander of the British Empire. That meant that I became Sir Harry Lauder and that my wife was Lady Lauder. There flashed into my memory what I had said to Annie so long ago. I turned to her and said, 'Well, Annie, dear love, I told you I'd make you a lady, and I have kept my word.' She said, 'I never doubted but you would Harry.'

"The name of my estate is Glen Branter, Strachan on Loch Fife, and it's a braw place.

"What advice would I give a young man? Follow his mother's advice, and to do nothing to bring shame or sorrow to her. If he'll do that he won't go far wrong.

"Yes, though, like most of the Scotch, I have believed in a wee doch-an-doroch yet it looks as though Scotland was going to go dry. It will seem hard for a time to many a Scotchman, yet, after all, a young man has no need of stimulant. The Scotch are hardy and as hard as the granite of our Scotch hills. We can easily get along without liquor once we are used to it."

As Sir Harry rubbed on the grease-paint and laid out his kilts and caps and canes he told me of the Harry Lauder fund for disabled soldiers.

"We have raised over £103,000," he said. "That means more than half a million dollars. I met some Scotch lads in Australia who had been gassed and had been sent to Australia to get back their health with money from the fund I am raising.

"The Australians are a wonderful people. I believe Australia is the greatest country in the world and the Australians are one of the world's greatest people. They are more loyal to Great Britain today than ever before in their history.

"I am proud of what my own people did in this war. Think of it, man! We had less than 4,750,000 people, and we sent over 900,000 soldiers into service. That means that one in every three males in Scotland was in uniform. Almost every man of fighting age was in service. From the day of Robert Bruce, and through the ages to today, you will always find the lads from the land of the heather in the front line of battle, whenever there is a righteous cause to be fought for. India, Africa, France, from Bannockburn to Waterloo, and on to Ypres and the Somme, the ground has been dyed with the blood of highlanders and lowlanders alike. The Coldstreams, the Seaforths, the Black Watch, and all the other Scottish regiments have shown, on scores of hardfought fields, the mettle of which they are made."

At another turn in the conversation, the interviewer relates, Sir Harry leaned forward, "and, gripping my knee with his muscular right hand said, with intense earnestness."

"We are told to love each other. How can you love your fellow man if you don't know him? If we only knew each other we would understand each other better, and then we would love each other better. Listen. Listen. Men can no longer say that the birth, the life, the crucifixion, and the death on the cross of the Son of Man don't concern them. He made the supreme sacrifice, that men might have life. Possibly I couldn't understand its full significance a few years ago; but I do now. My own laddie, my only bairn, laid down his life for his fellows. He made the supreme sacrifice. Thousands of other parents, like Annie and myself, have had their Gethsemane. My boy, John, lies on the hillside beyond Hamel, in Picardy, where he fell. I have stood by his grave. He was our all.

"No, we will not bring him home to Scotland. He will lie there till the final review, with the lads he led. Near him, in one grave, there are buried eighty-two lads of the King's Rifles. John was captain of a company of Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders. Before the war he was a lieutenant in the Territorals. He was at his studies at Cambridge when the call to service came. He was wounded three times. When he had recovered from the third wound he was offered a place in the War Office. He refused it. He said: "I am a soldier; I am needed at the front. My lads know me and trust me." He was in a shell-hole when a German sniper got him with a bullet through the heart.

"Am I a Scotch Presbyterian? Yes, but at the front, in France, I got a new vision of life and what it means. It means service—service for others. I am for the simple religion of Jesus Christ. I want no man nor creed to come between me and my God. We have too many creeds. We pay so much heed to our doctrines and creeds that sometimes I think we forget God. We are all serving under the same Great Commander, and all marching forward and upward toward the same destination. Let's get over thinking that our particular belief is the only religion that has God's approval. The day has come for the niping out of religious intolerance and animosities."

NOTICE

The undersigned give notice that their attention has been called to the fact that cheap imitations of their well-known electric lamps called "Osram" (which word they have the exclusive right to use) have been manufactured in Japan and sold to Chinese dealers on the Shanghai market.

In a case recently brought to the notice of the undersigned, where the spurious lamps bore the names OSTAN—OSTAM—OKRAM &c., a Japanese firm who sold, and a Chinese dealer who bought them, offered suitable apologies and delivered them up to us.

The public is hereby warned when purchasing electric lamps to be careful to see that the words OSRAM and the initials G. E. C. are clearly marked on the bulbs, and that any further instances of sale or disposal of infringements of our lamps will render those responsible liable to immediate proceedings.

OUR ABSENCE MAY HALT KAISER TRIAL

Treaty Provides For An American Judge On The Court To Hear The Case

MAY BE TRIED IN ABSENTIA

Would Still Be Possible To Put Evidence Of Guilt Before World

By EDWIN L. JAMES

Paris, Jan. 10.—At a conference of allied legal experts today to consider plans for the trial of the former Kaiser of Germany, the point was raised that the non-ratification by the United States of the Treaty of Versailles created a difficulty which must be solved. The treaty says the "allied and associated powers" will arraign William II. of Hohenzollern for the supreme offense against international morality. Therefore, inasmuch as "the allied and associated powers" today put the treaty into effect it is considered as beyond question that they can demand extradition from Holland. But the treaty specifies that the former Kaiser is to be tried by "a court composed of five Judges, one appointed by each of the following powers—the United States of America, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan." Thus the question of the legal powers of such a court lacking the American member arises.

This is very similar to the question of the legality of the Rhineland Commission without an American member. This was solved by simply omitting the American from the commission until America shall have ratified. Probably a similar decision may be taken as to the court to try the Kaiser, although it might be recalled that the decision affecting the Rhineland Commission was taken before the treaty came into effect.

The Supreme Council was again arranging today for calling on Germany to hand over the accused German officers for trial. The allied list of 1,200 has been reduced at the suggestion of England to 750, including the Crown Prince of Germany and Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria. The request to Holland to hand over the Kaiser also is being framed and it is stated on the best authority that this will be sent to the Dutch Government in a short time.

It should be understood that while France takes a very firm stand on the surrender of the German officers, French statesmen are not so sure of the advisability of trying William Hohenzollern, and it is England who is pushing the case against the former German Emperor. Pertinax, who generally knows what the French Government thinks says in the Echo de Paris today:

"With the extradition of Wilhelm it is going to be demanded of Holland at the same time that Germany will be called on to surrender the guilty officers and officials. Upon this affair we have given our opinion.

"It can give our feelings some satisfaction; it can add nothing to our security. It encourages dangerous illusions and it might lead us into a conflict with Holland."

It is understood that the list of Germans demanded will not be made public until the Berlin Government has exercised its best efforts to corral them.

London, Jan. 10.—Reports from Paris that the extradition of the ex-Kaiser will not be demanded of Holland, but that he will be tried "in contumacia," are understood to be correct. Mr. Lloyd George's political friends say the British Premier "does not mean to be deflected from the fulfillment of his electoral pledges, although President Wilson has been growing loath to face the ordeal of putting into action extradition processes: while even M. Clemenceau has of late been slackening in pursuit of his purpose of bringing the discredited Kaiser to trial, lest such an event might produce a reaction in Germany in his favor."

Mr. Lloyd George's political opponents, on the other hand, see in the proposal that the ex-Kaiser's trial take place "in contumacia" a hint of the "face which had its prologue in Lloyd George's hasty pledges." William, it is suggested, may upset the plan by accepting a summons to appear before an allied commission.

Manchester, Jan. 10.—The Manchester Guardian today hints that a solution of the difficulty with regard to the trial of the former German Emperor will be found.

"The ex-Kaiser will be summoned to trial before an allied commission, and if he does not answer—it is possible he may not—he will be tried in his absence," the newspaper says. "By this course his full guilt will be made manifest to the world by the testimony of witnesses, including Germans, his correspondence, and other documents. Sentence will be pronounced and if it cannot be executed it will, at any rate, be on record.

"One possibility is that on evidence available from Germany and Holland the ex-Kaiser will be proved a criminal lunatic."

Farmers, Union Men, Want U.S. To Keep Railroad Control

Washington, January 27.—A delegation of farmers, representatives of the American Federation of Labor and of the four union brotherhoods of railway trainmen have asked the president to continue government control of the railways for at least two years more.

Siccawei Weather Reports

12.—The same area of high pressures still covers the whole China; only the center having moved slightly eastwards it extends over Japan. The weather overcast over Shantung and the mouth of the Yangtsze; was snowy over Central China and rainy in the South. Light variable winds on the North coast, light E. winds on the Central coast and strong N.E. Winds in the Formosa Channal.

13.—Barometer still high but slowly falling. Rainy weather. Light E. winds.

LAUGHS, THRILLS, EXCITEMENT and SUSPENSE

A novelty Pathe serial, containing

ROMANGE of a high order
COMEDY of the most hilarious type
STUNTS galore of the reckless daredevil kind
THRILLS which cause the audience to gasp and gape

The hero of this intensely thrilling and exciting photoplay serial leads an adventurous career while engaged in the work of rescuing a beautiful princess from unscrupulous plotters against her throne and fortune.

AROUND THE WORLD WITHOUT A RAG OR A CENT!

That was the sporting wager which was made by Archibald Alexander Barlow when his fiancee compared his aimless and shiftless existence with that of the tramp-poet, Oscar Ben Glade.

THE YOUNG MILLIONAIRE SHED MONEY, CLOTHES, IDENTITY

He stowed away on a Spanish tramp steamer, fell foul of the arch-villain, Esteban Carnero, annexed the precious royal charter of Cordillera, rescued the beauteous princess Istra from dire peril.

SMASHING HIS WAY THROUGH EVERY OBSTACLE WITH EASE AND LAUGHTER!

Meeting peril with a good natured smile—and a quick gun: dealing out two-fisted wallops to those who deserved 'em: racing—riding—madly dashing—riproaring Archie proves as good a lover as he is a true hero.
